WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 3, 1881.

OF COURSE IT WAS INEVITABLE. Lap ham's first official net will be to address a lot of veterans. The veteran abideth with the pertinacity of a favorite corn.

THEY SAY that Sitting Bull wears as they were included in the surrender.

POSTMASTER-GENERAL GIRSON has just returned from Berkley Springs and left at once for New York. The impression is that he went in the interest of the Star-route cases. His assistant, Mr. James, will manage things in his absence.

ALL THE INDICATIONS point to the reelection of Senator Beck, of Kentucky. He is a man of marked ability, and only needs to shed some of his prejudiced notions about the subsidy of steamship lines. He will if Gen. William H. Payne, of Fauquier, soon be forced to this by the logic of events.

IN OUR NEWS COLUMNS will be found a statement that Wayne MacVeagh is pushing his alleged Star-route cases by means of a private monogram letter-head. We presume that this great man, being sole possessor of all the official law in the United States, is at liberty to construe it to suit himself. There may, however, be some bitter feeling, unless Gibson and Woodward are supplied with monograms. They are said to facilitate the transaction of business.

THERE IS A great howl within and without the National Capital-a howl that has existed for some years-auent the awful epidemic with wretched results of "malaria in and about Washington. If for "malaria" the subscribers of the able journals for which the Froudes and Macauleys of Newspaper Row correspond could read "whisky," they would strike nearer the root of the trouble. If there was less rum imbibed the city could stand a great deal more "malaria" and still be in perfect health.

THE Lafayette Times is authority for saying that Hon, Godlove S. Orth believes that Vice-President Arthur is constitutionally acting President, President Garfield suffering from "an inability to discharge the powers and duties" of that office. The Hon. Godlove S. Orth is respectfully requested to state just when he expects the said Vice-President Arthur to assume the functions at the White House. It will gratify a great many people to have the time announced as nearly as Mr. Orth can reach it.

subject he might see why it is that Assistant Secretary French keeps on performing duties of a judicial character in violation of law. We believe there is an alleged law officer for that department.

It is beginning to dawn—though at a very late date in the bright light of the American people—upon that same people that the license of the press is made most licentions and unbearable by the illustrated periodicals of the day. It is all well enough and ill enough to scathe public men in the Queen's English, and by sentences written and printed effect the end aimed at and rest liable, if in the wrong, to libel suits or pistol wounds; but this thing of carricaturing has grown monotonous, as Mark Twain said when the cow fell on him the fifth time. No mind of decent instincts can agree to the perpetration of cartoons of individuals such as flourish in our illustrated press, however deep may be the enmity or opposition entertained toward the subject-material of the same.

BISHOP TALBOT, of Indiana, said last month at the Diocesean Convention, that "the employment of musicians in church choirs who are irreligious persons has a most injurious tendency, and should not be encouraged." He said also that "in too many cases a worldly spirit has crept into the very worship of the church, involving priests and people alike in its guilt and its dangers. Brilliant sermons-more brilliant than Christian-elaborate and expensive music, the one with no suggestions of the danger of unbelieving souls-no warning of the wrath to come.'

We have never taken much stock in the wrath to come; but the good Bishop is certainly entitled to have respectable people assist him in his business, and we trust that no more depraved gentlemen or ladies will try to accompany him in the service.

THE Econing Star of yesterday says: Washington Padget is the name of the young blacksmith, in the employ of John McDermott & Bro. 310 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, who died suddenly yesterday afternoon in a fit, as stated in the Star.

It is an old trick of the Star's, when it misses a good item, to let itself down easy the day following by remarking "as stated in the Star." Our contemporary must have a peculiar class of readers if they can be so deceived.

- THE CETTIC of August 1 had a full and detailed account of young Padgett's death, and it is prepared to handsomely reward any man, woman or child in Washington who can produce an Evening Star of Monday, August 1, containing an account of it. The announcement yesterday was certainly one of the cheeklest things we have seen. It was an attempt to make the public be-Heve that it is always up with the news But the people are realizing the fact that if they want all the news served up fresh they must read a live paper like THE

It is among the very remote possibilities hat THE CRITIC may miss an item, but it never will insult the intelligence of its readers by pretending to have that which dry, but there are other things needed in it never did have.

Ohlo has had rain. The State was pretty dry, but there are other things needed in Ohlo besides rain. it never did have.

TO-MORROW THE DEMOCRATIC CONVEN-TION will be convened in Richmond, Va. Never in the history of a State has there been a more carnest fight than that at hand between the parties politic in the Old Dominion. It assumes even more extensive proportions than a triangular duel, The parties waging the war are of all classes and colors and kaleidoscopic in the character of their croeds. There is the Funder party, pure and simple—the Bourbons as they are termed. There is the Readjuster party, headed by Senator Mahone, with Mayor Cameron, of Petersburg, as its candidate for governor. There is the Readjuster-Democratic party, which will back the Bourbons, and the Readjuster-Republican party, which swings into line with the Mahone Readjusters, and still along in the Joseph's caat of divers political bues is found the straight-out unadulterated Republican smoked eye-glasses in the glare of the sun. party, nourished and controlled by the No alarm need be caused by this statement, pillars of perfect Republicanism in the State, such as Messrs, Wickham, Jorgensen and Dezendorf.

In the Democratic convention of to-mor row the most prominent names that will be mentioned in connection with the nomination for governorship will be ex-Congress man John Goode, and John T. Harris. Major John W. Daniels, of Lynchburg. Gen. Fitzhugh Lee and Col. O'Ferrall will also be named, and with a comparatively strong indersement at the outset but will soon be withdrawn. It is doubtful will be brought forward at all. That gentleman is one of the most noted and one of the most gallant men the great old State ever bore, and his commonwealth is justly proad of a son so pure and noble, but Gen. Payne does not desire the nomination, and it is doubtful if, nominated and elected, he would be eligible, inasmuch as he has been, we understand, connected at one time with a duel, in some way or other, sufficient under the statutes of Virginia to raise a technical inquiry as to his eligibility, and the question might be answered negatively. It is not improbable that Hon. Eppa Hunton, in case his friend, Gen. Payne, refuses to allow the use of his name, will be furthered toward the nomination, but in the opinion of the majority of those who have studied the question carefully, the race rests between Messrs. Goode and Harris. The probability of the entrance of a dark horse is not well based.

In the general election the chances for the governorship are largely in favor of the Funders as against the Readjusters. We have given close study to the subject and feel no hesitation to assume that Col Cameron will be defeated by the Democratic nominee, whosoever he may be, but in the other offices of the State the assumption would not hold good. There will be a general mclange of nominees returned by the popular vote and the administration of the State will be divided up among Funders, Readjusters, Readjuster-Democrats and Retime announced as nearly as Mr. Orth can reach it.

The Indianapolis Herald says that Secretary Windom is thoroughly convinced of the necessity of strict civil-service rules in the government, and, so far as his department is concerned, proposes to put some in force at once. He will endeavor to have a system adopted for all branches of the public service; but so far as the Treasury goes the fence must be put up promptly and strong."

The Champion Grabber.

Indianapolis News.

Gen. Harrison having now gotten most of his relatives in sung positions under the Government, he should look after Capt. Ed. Johnston. Let's see: There is Russell B. Harrison, special agent of the U. S. Mini at Helena, Montana; his brother, Capter Harrison, special agent of the Treasury Department, like brother-in-law. Sam. Morris, registry clerk in the post-office in this city; and his sister-in-law in a snug clerk-ship in the Treasury Department at Washington. Now is it not about time for some one else to get a place—some one who rendered some service?

A Pleasant Parishioner.

Indianapolis People.

No one can read of the terrible atrocities committed by the Apache Indians upon several white women who fell into their hands, and upon young Pugh, of Ohlo, son of the late Senator George E. Pugh, without becoming heart sick. And yet the Government excreises a temporizing policy toward these "good" Indians, who should in reality be annihilated from the face of God's earth.

A Logan Junior Proposed.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Sitting Bull has two sons (twins) whom he calls "The War is Over." If John Logan ever contributes a son to the population of Illinois, we trust that he will bestow this soothing name upon him. It will be a pleasant reminder and one that he stands in occasional need of.

Fine Times in Ohio.

Kellogg Forgotten.

St. Louis Post Dispatch.

If Edmunds is taken out of the Senate and placed on the Supreme Bench there won't be brains enough left on the Republican side of that body to butter a sandwich.

George Jones Can Suspend John Russell Young tells Gath that Gen. Grant's income is about $50,000 a year from his son's firm, in which Grant is a slient partner, from his milroad positions, his own investments, and the Grant fund.

Blocking the Movement.

Senator Dawes says the world would be better if men were not so bad. It is a little curious, in view of this startling fact, that Dawes refuses to reform.

Hope for Smith. Cincinnati Enquirer.

The King of the Sandwich Islands signed a Masonic visitors' book "David Kathkaun." Rather a pilan name for a King. John Smith should live in hope.

Still on Tap.

There has been a slight check in the conversational flow from the great doctors who are caring for the wounded President, but Mrs. Edson, who is a sort of a female medical basht-bazouk, is still on tap.

It is nearly nine months since the elec-tion, and yet it is only now that the popular vote for President can be accurately given. It is: Garfield. 4,442,950; Hancock. 4,442,035; Garfield's majority, 915.
